New packaging

Café Essentials is excited to announce the rollout of new packaging materials and its new “look”. Currently packaged in 6.5# one gallon jars and 25# bulk, the change to 3.5# metalized poly bags and 25# bulk has been taking place during 2009. The 6.5# jars are being discontinued over the next month or so until current supplies are sold out.

The new bags offer several advantages including a more compact shipping and pallet cube, a smaller case size that uses less cardboard and a new look that is inspired by an Italian Tuscan villa color scheme. The color scheme is very “coffeehouse”.

As a result, the new packaging offers a smaller carbon footprint and is more eco-friendly all around.

Café Essentials time is now!

Something to value

Café Essentials products in general have a strong and distinct taste profile that is winning over converts daily from the competition. Our price points are considerably lower, and our products are more concentrated, thus offering you, the shop owner, the additional profits they seek. Our marketing is top notch. The support and training is second to none, check out our website and see our training.

If offering taste profiles that keep your customer coming back for more is important to you, then now is the time to introduce Café Essentials to your customers

Question & Answers

When will products be available in the bags?

Products are available now.

When will products stop being available in jars?

Short answer: When we run out of jars, some will run out fast, others a little slower.

Long answer: We will be trying to establish a timeline for each product so you know what is in stock in jars and what is not. Each product may vary a little, but we will be trying to set a final date to order certain products. If you want or need jars, order them now.

What is the price differential between jars and bags?

There is no price differential. The cost per pound and the per drink cost is exactly the same for product purchased in jars or bags. This makes the transition much easier as there is no advantage or disadvantage to purchase one versus the other.

Why is Café Essentials making this change?

The bags allow for a smaller case size, less packaging weight, smaller pallet sizes etc. It was also time for a new “look” for this line so here it is!

What do the bags and cartons look like?

We designed the “look” as the Italian Tuscan villa color scheme with brown and gold’ish tones that are so prevalent in coffeehouses. The symbol and scroll type give the high-end appearance that matches the product quality & taste.

Question & Answers

Do scoops come in the bags or in the cases?

No scoops will be in the bags or cases. The proper scoop to use is outlined in the scoopology system.

If I am used to the jars, what will I pour the bags into?

For current jar customers, you can keep the jars and reuse them. Most customers who like the jars want to keep using them, so reusing the jar is the perfect solution.

What other solutions do you have to pour product into?

Many customers already have a dispensing system. It may be jars, tubs, clear glass containers, Tupperware or other methods. For those customers who do not have a system in place, or want to change to our “look”, Café Essentials will offer a re-usable tub.

What about these tubs design?

We chose a rectangular designed tub that cost twice as much as round because we want our customers to use and re-use the tubs because they will be attractive, practical, space saving versus round, easy to get your hand into, are stackable and hold about 1 ¼ to 1 ½ 3.5 pound bags.

Question & Answers

What about product names on the tubs?

For customers who have a dispensing system, or for customers using our tubs we have a sheet that has the product names on it. You cut out the name and stick in on the Café Essentials sticker. This CE sticker is placed on the front of the tub or container and imparts that rich Italian Tuscan villa look and color scheme that is common in coffee shops.

Are the tubs washable?

The tubs should not be put in a dishwasher. Wipe them off to keep them clean. The labels have a water resistant layer and as such are "weatherproof", they can be wiped off, but cannot be dunked under water.

How do I get these tubs?

Order from your distributor.

How many can we order?

One tub is needed for each flavor. If you carry five flavors, then five tubs!

What about scoops?

Use the new scoopology system so you know which size scoop you need, and order one scoop per tub.

Question & Answers

Are there any other great selling points I should know of?

How about this one. Café Essentials is designed to deliver a great tasting beverage when made with water. Most companies' drinks taste way too watery when made with water. Café Essentials are designed to be made with water only. This saves on the milk cost.

If you make Café Essentials with milk, you get an ultra-decadent taste profile. You can use water, 50/50 water and milk, non-fat milk etc to get the profile you desire.

Step by Step, "the Dustless Way"

How to transfer Cafe Essentials from bag to storage container in 4 easy steps.

This method of product transfer greatly reduces the amount of dust as opposed to other methods.

Locate tear notch located at the top-center of bag

Position left and right hand on opposite sides of tear notch. Grip firmly and pull in opposing directions, tearing corner from bag.

Collapse the bag so it fits into the tub opening. Put opening of bag deep into the bottom of the tub to reduce dust.

Pull bag upward slowly. Let product flow from bag. Do not create an air gap and no dust will be created.
